ESNO Congress Newsletter
January 2020

Introduction

IT'S ON! 2020, the year of nurse and midwifery. Already 3 weeks going on and in this stage we are overwhelmed with request to participate in a variety of health programs, and in return we have invited healthcare organizations, networks and allied organizations to engage with our activities. In this newsletter we update on the current status of activities and on those in the pipeline, some very soon to come up, others before the summer and towards the end of 2020 and much of them will have a long term character, the year of the nurses will give a boost fr the years to come

While reading and discussing about the year of the nurse, we need to keep in mind that this 'year of the nurse' is not FOR us nurses and thereby overwhelming ourselves with selfies and high fives but it's ABOUT NURSING. “The value of the nursing profession in society and in healthcare”. Secondly, as we know by experience, it's not possible any more to be ‘Polyvalent’ and switch from ward to ward: one week on the cardiology ward a few weeks later on the intensive care and a few weeks later an urology ward, our profession has changed over the years with specialism. To ESNO the term of generic nurses has less relevance and speak in term of health domain, specialty or a cluster of specialties. So often we refer to the nurses but implicitly directing to a certain specialty or health domain. Generic and specialist nurses are complementing each other.

!!! NURSES GUIDE ON MICROBES

Over the past 3 weeks, it's all over the news, the Corona Virus is spreading rapidly with immense social and economic impact and when not been handled well, it could end up in a pandemic. There are so many reasons to provide our professionals with information and education materials and communication strategies on microbes, medication, vaccine, Antimicrobial resistance and very important: Infection Prevention Control.

We are convinced that in nursing training, education and professional development, microbiology requires today and in future a more higher and compulsory profile.

The process of the guide in on track and it's going to be launched 28 April afternoon in the heart of Brussels with a special mini congress with official presentation to a high ranking official. The full draft is close to ready and in the stage of finalizing, we have an organisation taking care of the lay out and a printing company. After the launch of the first edition it can also be uploaded from the ESNO website.

While the subject is rapid gaining attention, the Focus group is already working on a second edition later this year but we will include aspects of the Corona Virus but already touched in this first edition

ESNO ‘Associats’

In the strategy of ESNO to engage and line up with European, national and local institutes such as universities and hospitals, the constitution has been revised and published.

This means that organizational associates participating in projects, activities and engage in surveys and studies. They are also easier connected to European projects, direct or indirectly. There will not be an active recruitment but institutes will be approached through the ESNO member or they can contact the ESNO.

For individual associates it is the same and specific for those nurses not related or connected to the members. In this stage there are still specialties missing in the ESNO member organization and engaging them is important to us. There are already individual nurses member of

Education Committee: from Survey to Delphi study

A key component of the ESNO Congress will be the outcome of the ESNO survey on the specialist nurse in Europe. The great amount of data are analysed and qualitative information is transformed in quantitative data. During the event a report will be launched and distributed with the possibility to enlist as engagers to support a Delphi study in 2020 and 2021.
